TOWNE ALKE

"Just for Fun"
By RAS BERRY

Well, says John Torrence, Monday morning, I was very much surprised to wake up today and find that Torrance was wet again.

Up hunting in the San Bernardino mts. Fred Hansen, Sam Levy and Ras. Sam never hit anything, except once. Fred wounded a rabbit and tied it to a stake so Sam could shoot at it. Sam says, if you'll toss up your hat and give me a shot at it, I'll toss up mine and let you shoot at it. Sam never touched Fred's hat. But Sunday Sam had to take another lid out of stock.

About five o'clock Sat. p. m. Sam's gun accidentally fired off. It didn't miss him far, says Sam. So they did. Nobody was hurt, only two little bitta bunnies.

They is plenty of busy bozos up to Smith's restaurant that is kidding Arthur Hardeman because Art went down to Tia Juana. Smithy says Art spent five years' savings on the trip. Art says the only reason Smithy is peeved is because he wasn't along while some of the jack was being disposed of.

Probably the niftiest letter written in town is the kind Doll Har mails to Ras. It's got swell silver insides. That is easy understood because both Doll Har and The Bat is interested in interior decorations as is established by The Bat's statement to J. U. H. that unless certain snickeresses of surgeons ain't regulated under the cutout regulations they won't be a completely decorated interior in these parts.

If The Bat will mail me the poem about "When you were a tadpole and I was a fish," I'll be more than pleased to renew its acquaintance and publish it for the benefit of the unenlightened.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the hall was filled for the play, several selections, and some fine songs and duets were sung. Meetings are being held each night at 7:30.
